

About the Journal

ARETE is an annual official journal publication of the Liberal Arts and Education Programs of the University of the Immaculate Conception (UIC). This publication showcases the research completed by the Communication Arts, Psychology, Philosophy, Literature and Education faculty and students of UIC. This publication is committed to providing them the right avenue to develop their scientific and technical skills through the publication of their research outputs.

About the Title

ARETE is an ancient Greek word that means excellence or virtue. This symbolizes the vision of the Liberal Arts and Education Programs of the University of the Immaculate Conception to excel in the field of Communication Arts, Psychology, Philosophy, Literature, and Education.

About the Cover

The cover, designed by the University Communication Office, depicts excellence in Humanities and Arts and Teacher Education, symbolized by the mountains of varied colors and curve lines in contrasting dimensions. These symbols reveal the kaleidoscope nature of the College of Arts and Humanities and College of Teacher Education, diverse and rich, multi-layered, and colorful but profound and interconnected.
